It seems as though the Annual Staff of the '59-'60 school year were accurately foretelling the future when they named El Capitan's first annual Ahora y Siempre. Now And Forever said in one phrase, what proud El Capitan students have been saying for the past 25 years. On our Silver Anniversary, the '83-'84 Annual Staff offers you a nostalgic look at 25 years of ongoing pride and growth. El Capitan students have felt and still feel we have the best school in the district. It seems appropriate our 25th year was sterling in so many areas of athletics, clubs, activities and organizations.

The 25th Annual Football Carnival
And
Viva El Capitan

The spirited crowd at the Viva El Cap game consisted of both proud parents and students.

Intensive concentration pulled the Varsity linemen together and formed one of Varsity cheerleaders Heather Jensen, Sherry Gebhardt, Angela Dreher, and Amy Hagman cheered at the Viva El Cap game.

The football players carried out a twenty-five year old tradition of lining up at the goal post to be announced.

El Cap's best teams of the past twenty-five years.

This year's Football Carnival was held at the Valley Stadium on September 7th. The game began with El Capitan pitted against Valhalla, starting at 7:30. El Cap beat Valhalla 7-0, having many spirited Vaquero fans there to back the team. The football carnival win was to be a sneak preview of more to come for the football team and its fans that season.

Viva El Capitan hosted the team's first official pre-season game. This year El Cap played Mira Mesa, but couldn't pull out the win, losing 21-7. Viva was to be the only loss throughout the 83-84 season. Viva continues as a major promoter of school pride and spirit.

Band members performed at the carnival during halftime.

Varsity offense protected the quarterback Barry Griffiths #15 against the Mira Mesa defense during the Viva El Cap game.

Rick Halverson #35, Barry Griffiths #15, and other Varsity players congratulate each other after winning the football carnival against El Cajon, 7-0.

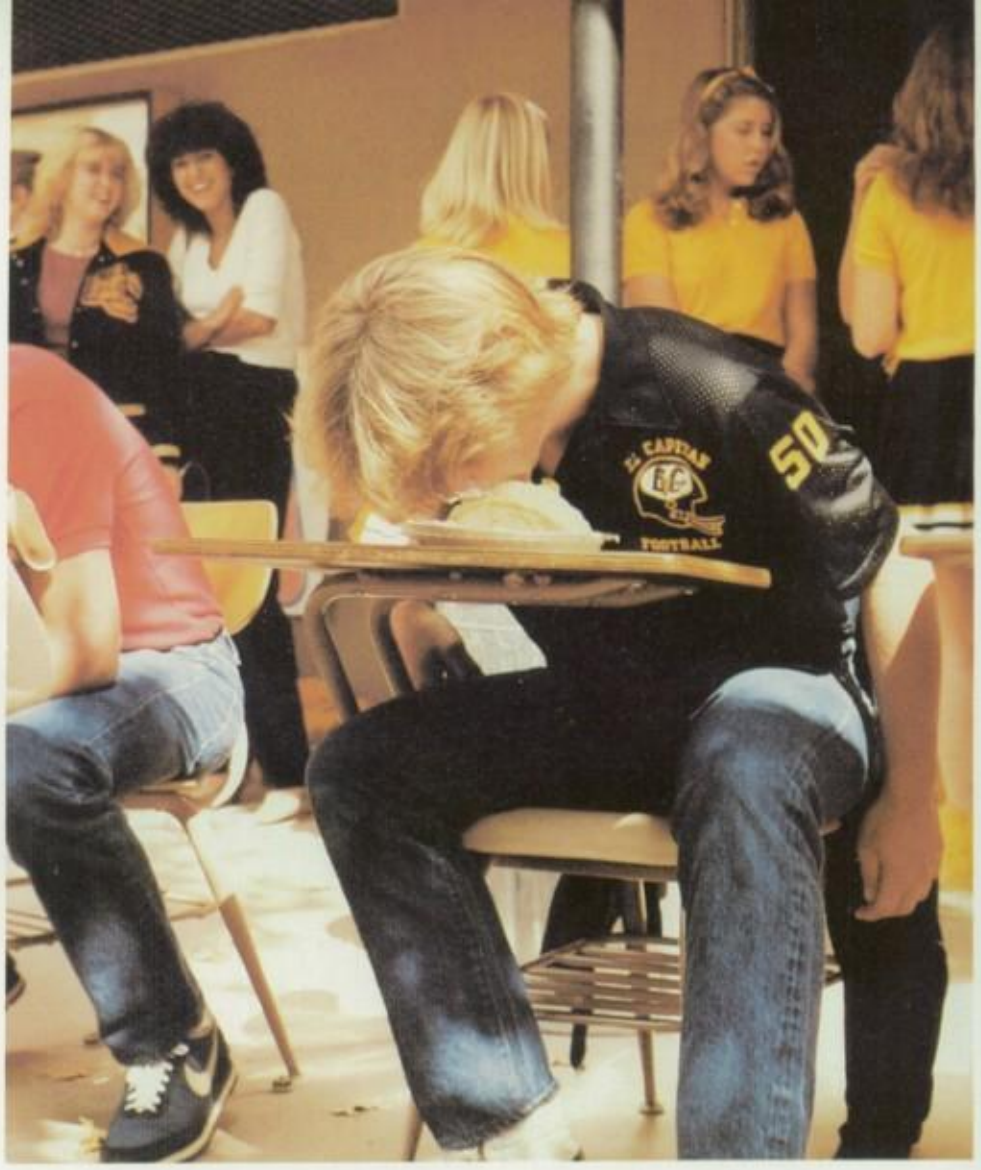
Lunchtime hangouts never seem to change. The wall and the lawns were as busy last year as it was 25 years ago. And when the student store was moved to the 1000 building to accomodate our new lunchtime boundaries, the loyal students who ate there moved right along with it. Of course, the best place to be most every Friday, was at the pep assemblies where ASB held different contests to promote school spirit along with the cheerleaders and the specialty corps.

Pep Assemblies

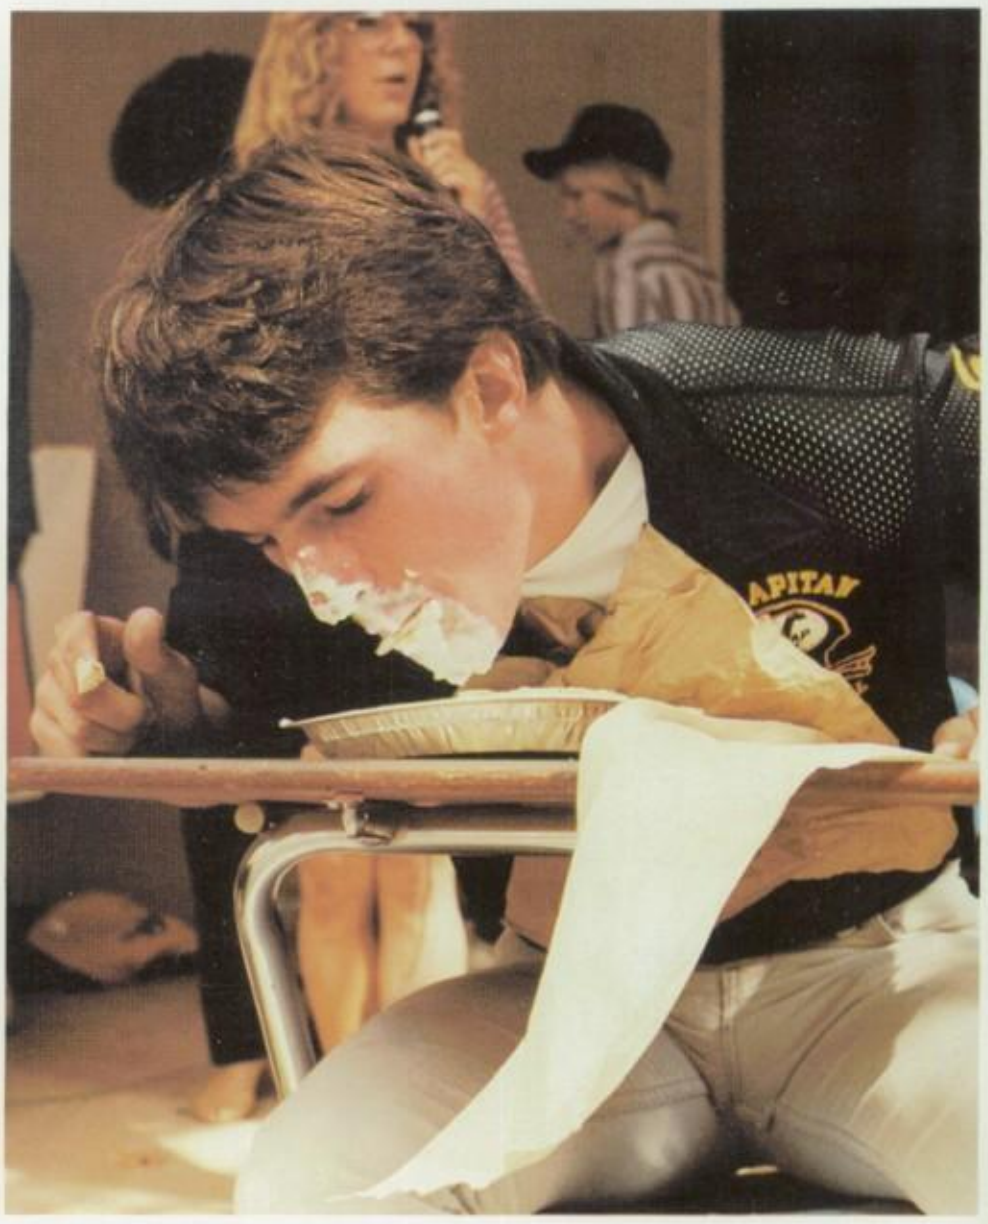
Throughout the years, pep assemblies have been a method to inspire school spirit. This year's were even bigger and better than ever before. Pep assemblies were led by the Varsity and J.V. cheerleaders. These assemblies not only include cheers to encourage El Capitan teams but also promoted such things as ice cream eating, pie eating, and leg auctions among other activities. Pep assemblies are a tradition that have been carried out by all the past generations at El Cap.

The coke drinking contest was held during opening week.

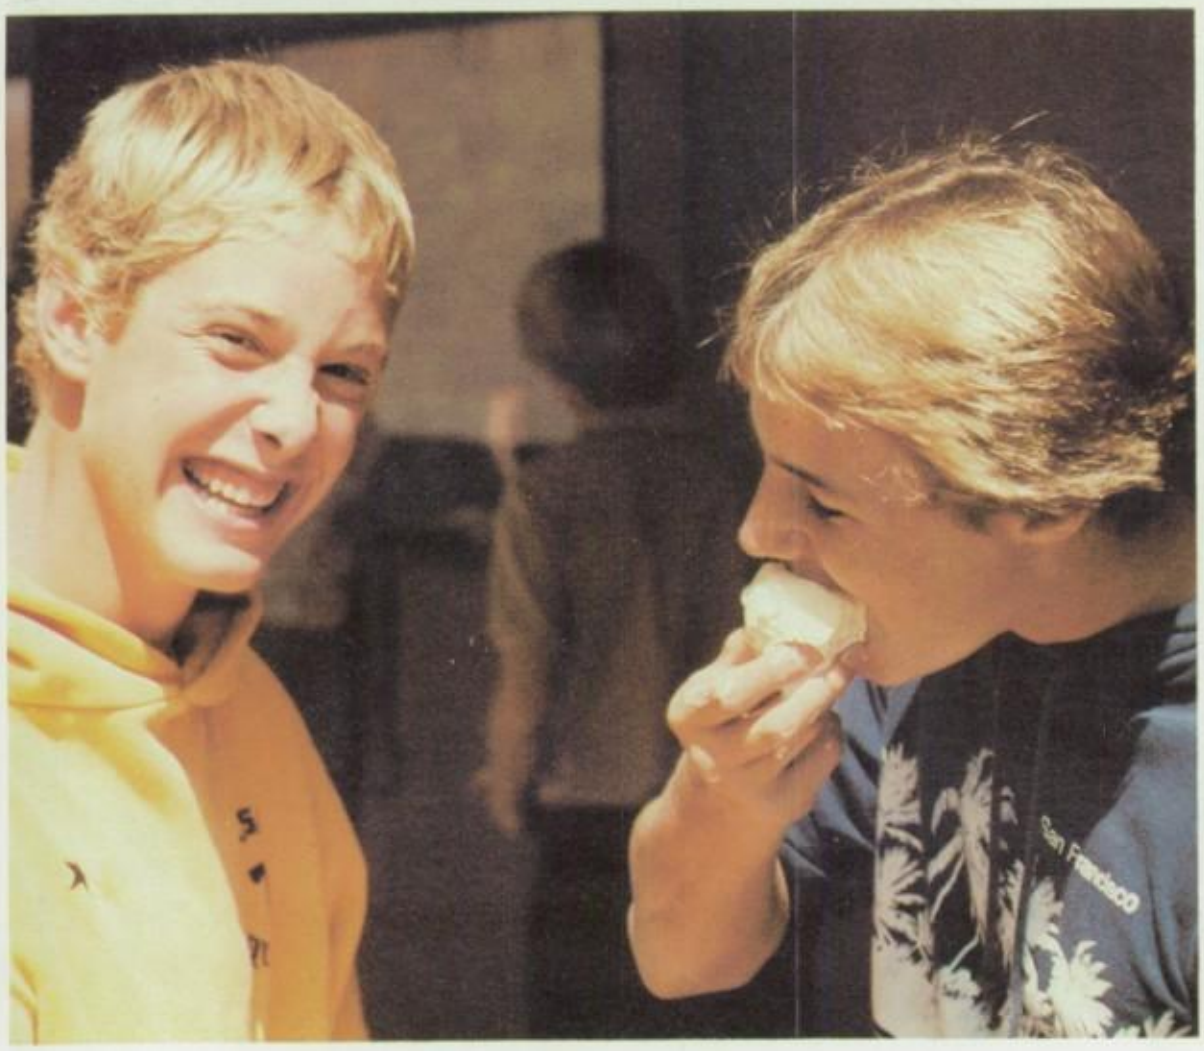
Varsity cheer show their skills at every pep assembly.



Joe Schramm shows his school spirit during the pie eating contest.



Tom Larimer dives face first into his pie.



Robert Krueger and Troy Surratt eat a ball of ice cream after the contest.

Whose knees are these?

Participants in the ice cream eating contest were blind folded before trying to feed their partners.

A few of the legs auctioned off during the leg auction.

The Homecoming Assemblie

Excitement grew on campus as the time grew closer for the Homecoming assembly. Classes were shortened to allow maximum time for the festivities. Mr. Avant provided the opening remarks, while the A.S.B. and coaches introduced the individual players on each of the fall season teams as well as the Homecoming court.

The cheerleaders and specialty teams performed in between the different events. J.V. football surprised the J.V. Cheerleaders by giving each a single yellow rose to show their appreciation. The Varsity cheerleaders handed out the traditional care packages to the varsity football squad.

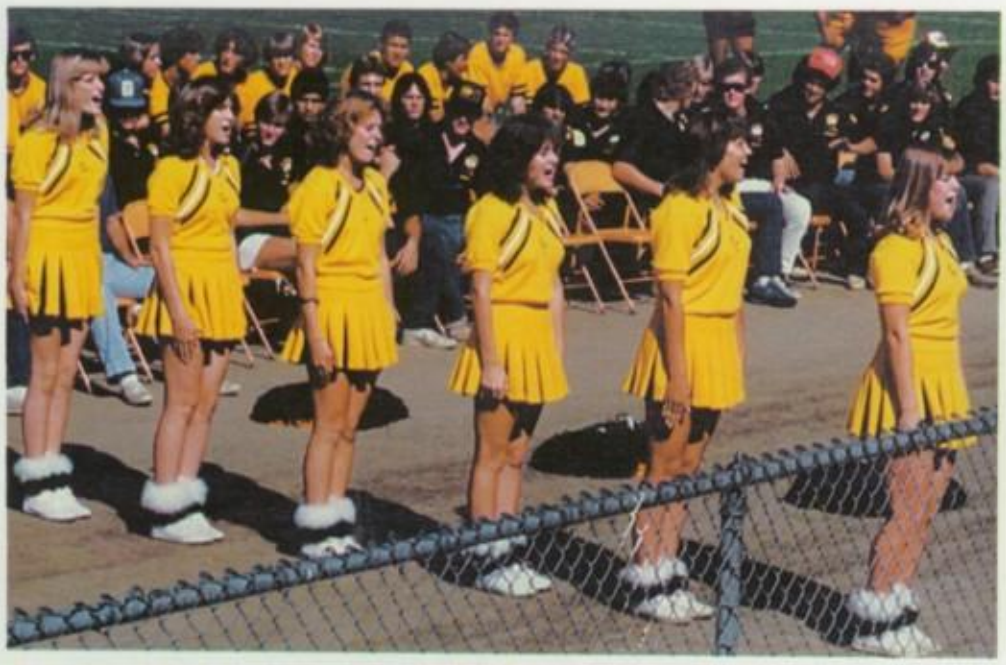
The stands were jammed with a capacity crowd of students and faculty. CIF fever was strong, and yellow and black balloons proudly proclaimed "CIF Bound."

Homecoming assembly in its 25th year induced a spirit that carried the team to a strong shut out victory of 28-0 over Monte Vista. A fitting finish for a sterling event.

Members of the cross country team were introduced by Mr. Storm.

The J.V. football team presented flowers to the J.V. cheerleaders.

Mr. Legace took this opportunity to introduce the water polo team.



J.V. cheer introduced themselves to the crowd with their "Hello" cheer.

Players on the volleyball team applauded teammates as they were announced by Mr. Yasuda.

Coach Rockhold holds up the #1 hand that went on sale before the Homecoming game.

Students pack in the stands to watch the pep assembly.

Varsity, J.V., and former cheerleaders were at the assembly to cheer on the football team.

Members of the Drill team hold up V's for victory as they sing the Alma Mater.

The pep assembly came to a close with everyone doing the Alma Mater.

The Care Package Tradition Continues

Care packages for the Varsity football team and coaches is a 25 year tradition. They are prepared by friends, cheerleaders, and A.S.B. to surprize, delight, support and thank the team for their efforts. Traditionally the packages are decorated with paper, balloons, art work, and contain a variety of homemade junk food goodies, posters, calenders, toys, and football paraphernalia. Coach Waasted was even the receipent of new black shorts to replace his long wearing yellow ones.

The football field was lined with row upon row of colorfull care packages.

Before tearing into their care packages the team waited impatiently for the assembly to end.

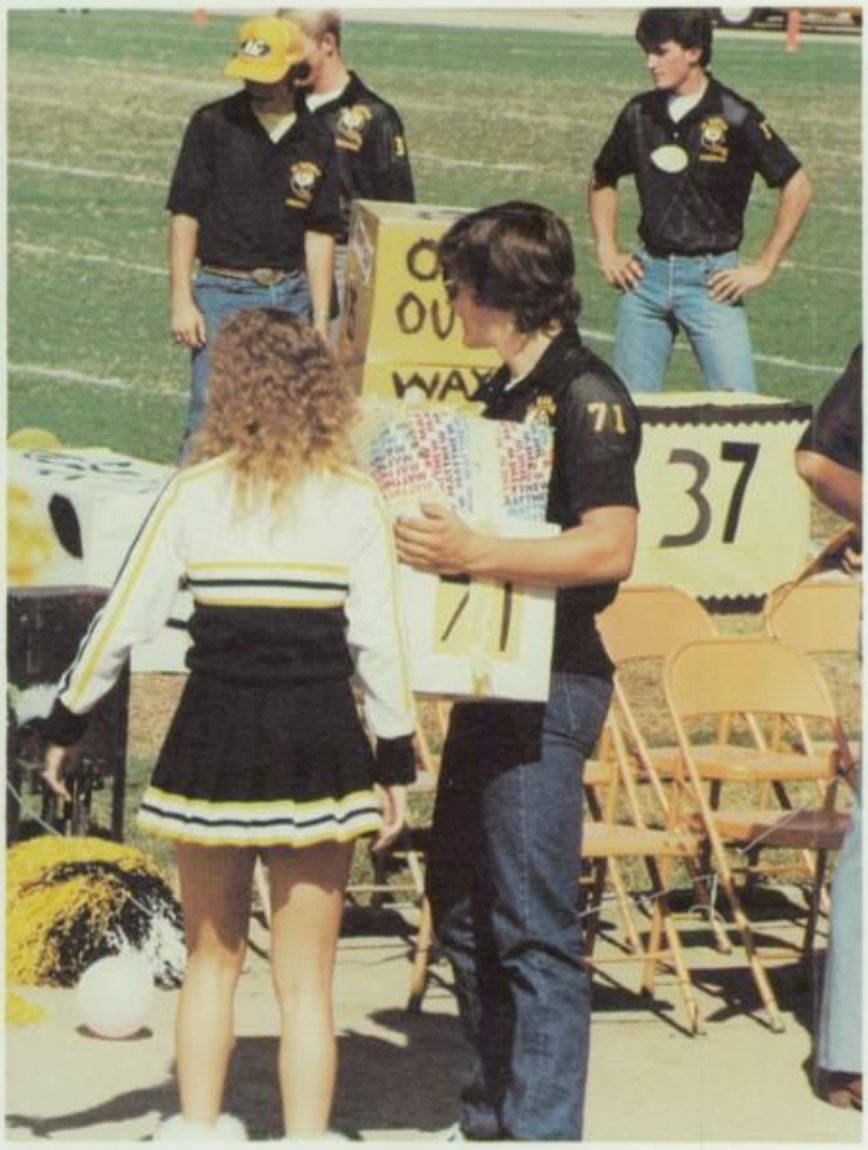
Tim Martin carries off his care package.

Debbie Adamson and Debby Grant hand Mark Stroman his package.

Dan McCormick carries off a care package almost as big as he is.

Students watch on as the activities continue.

Mr. Maw, Mr. Legace, and Mr. Avant show their school pride by wearing black and gold.

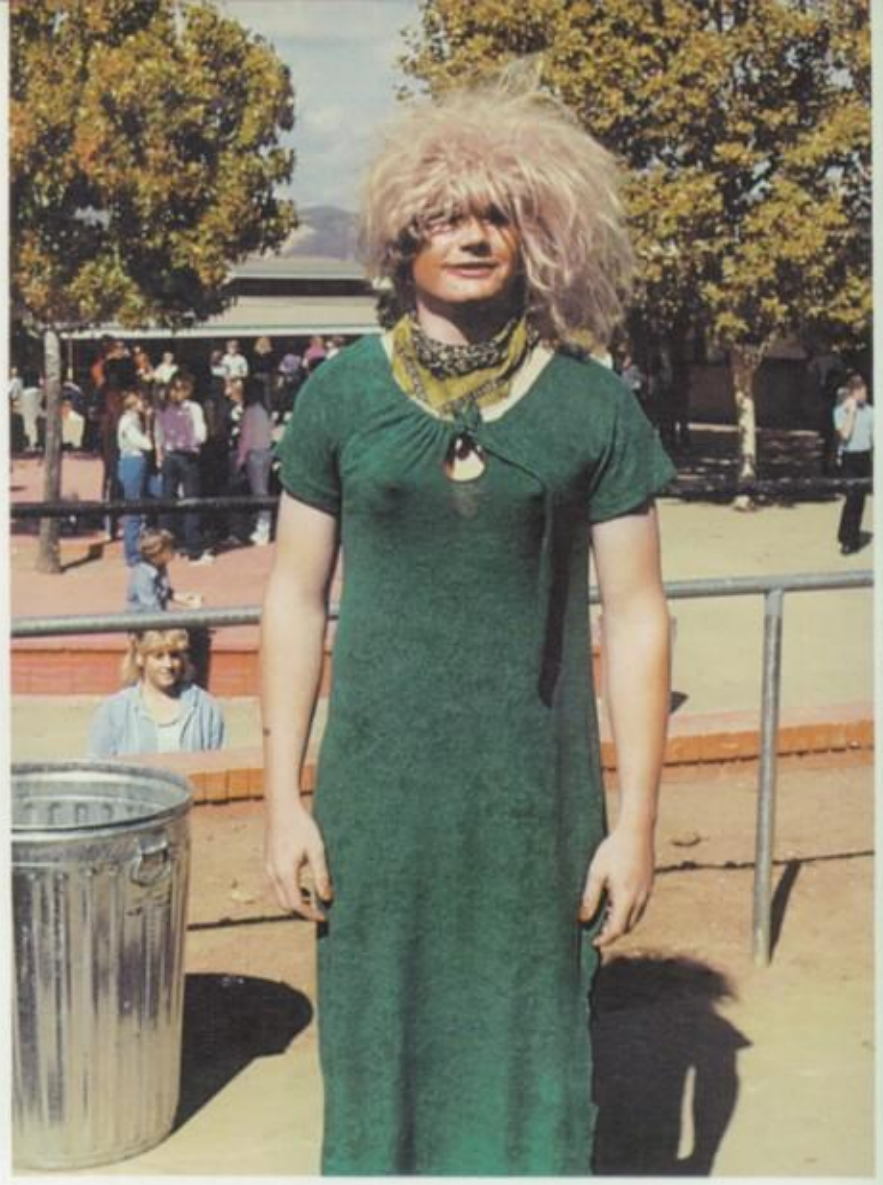


Matt Stroman receives his present that was prepared by Kari Henzie.

Mr. Waasted receives his care package which contained a pumpkin filled with candy among other gifts.

Halloween

Donna Whitt and Robin Register dressed as a French maid and Minnie Mouse.



Beauty or the beast?

The Blues Brothers made their appearance on campus this year.

Linda Norris dressed for the occasion as a cheerleading cowgirl.

Tracy McCool flexes his muscles as he showed us his new look.

Both faculty and students get in the act. Need any "odd" jobs done?

Halloween is the day evil spirits and the devil come out to play.

Gaby Hillan showed no fear of Rick Halverson, the man behind the mask.

Ghosts and goblins showed their faces on campus October 31. Students dressed in their favorite costumes to get into the Halloween spirit. Cowboys, wizards, and evil spirits of every shape and size paraded through the halls. Some teachers got into the act and dressed as bees, bums, Raggedy Anns, or even Little Bo Peep.

Around School

Kathy Heiser, annual photographer, becomes the subject as she and fellow photographer take pictures of each other.

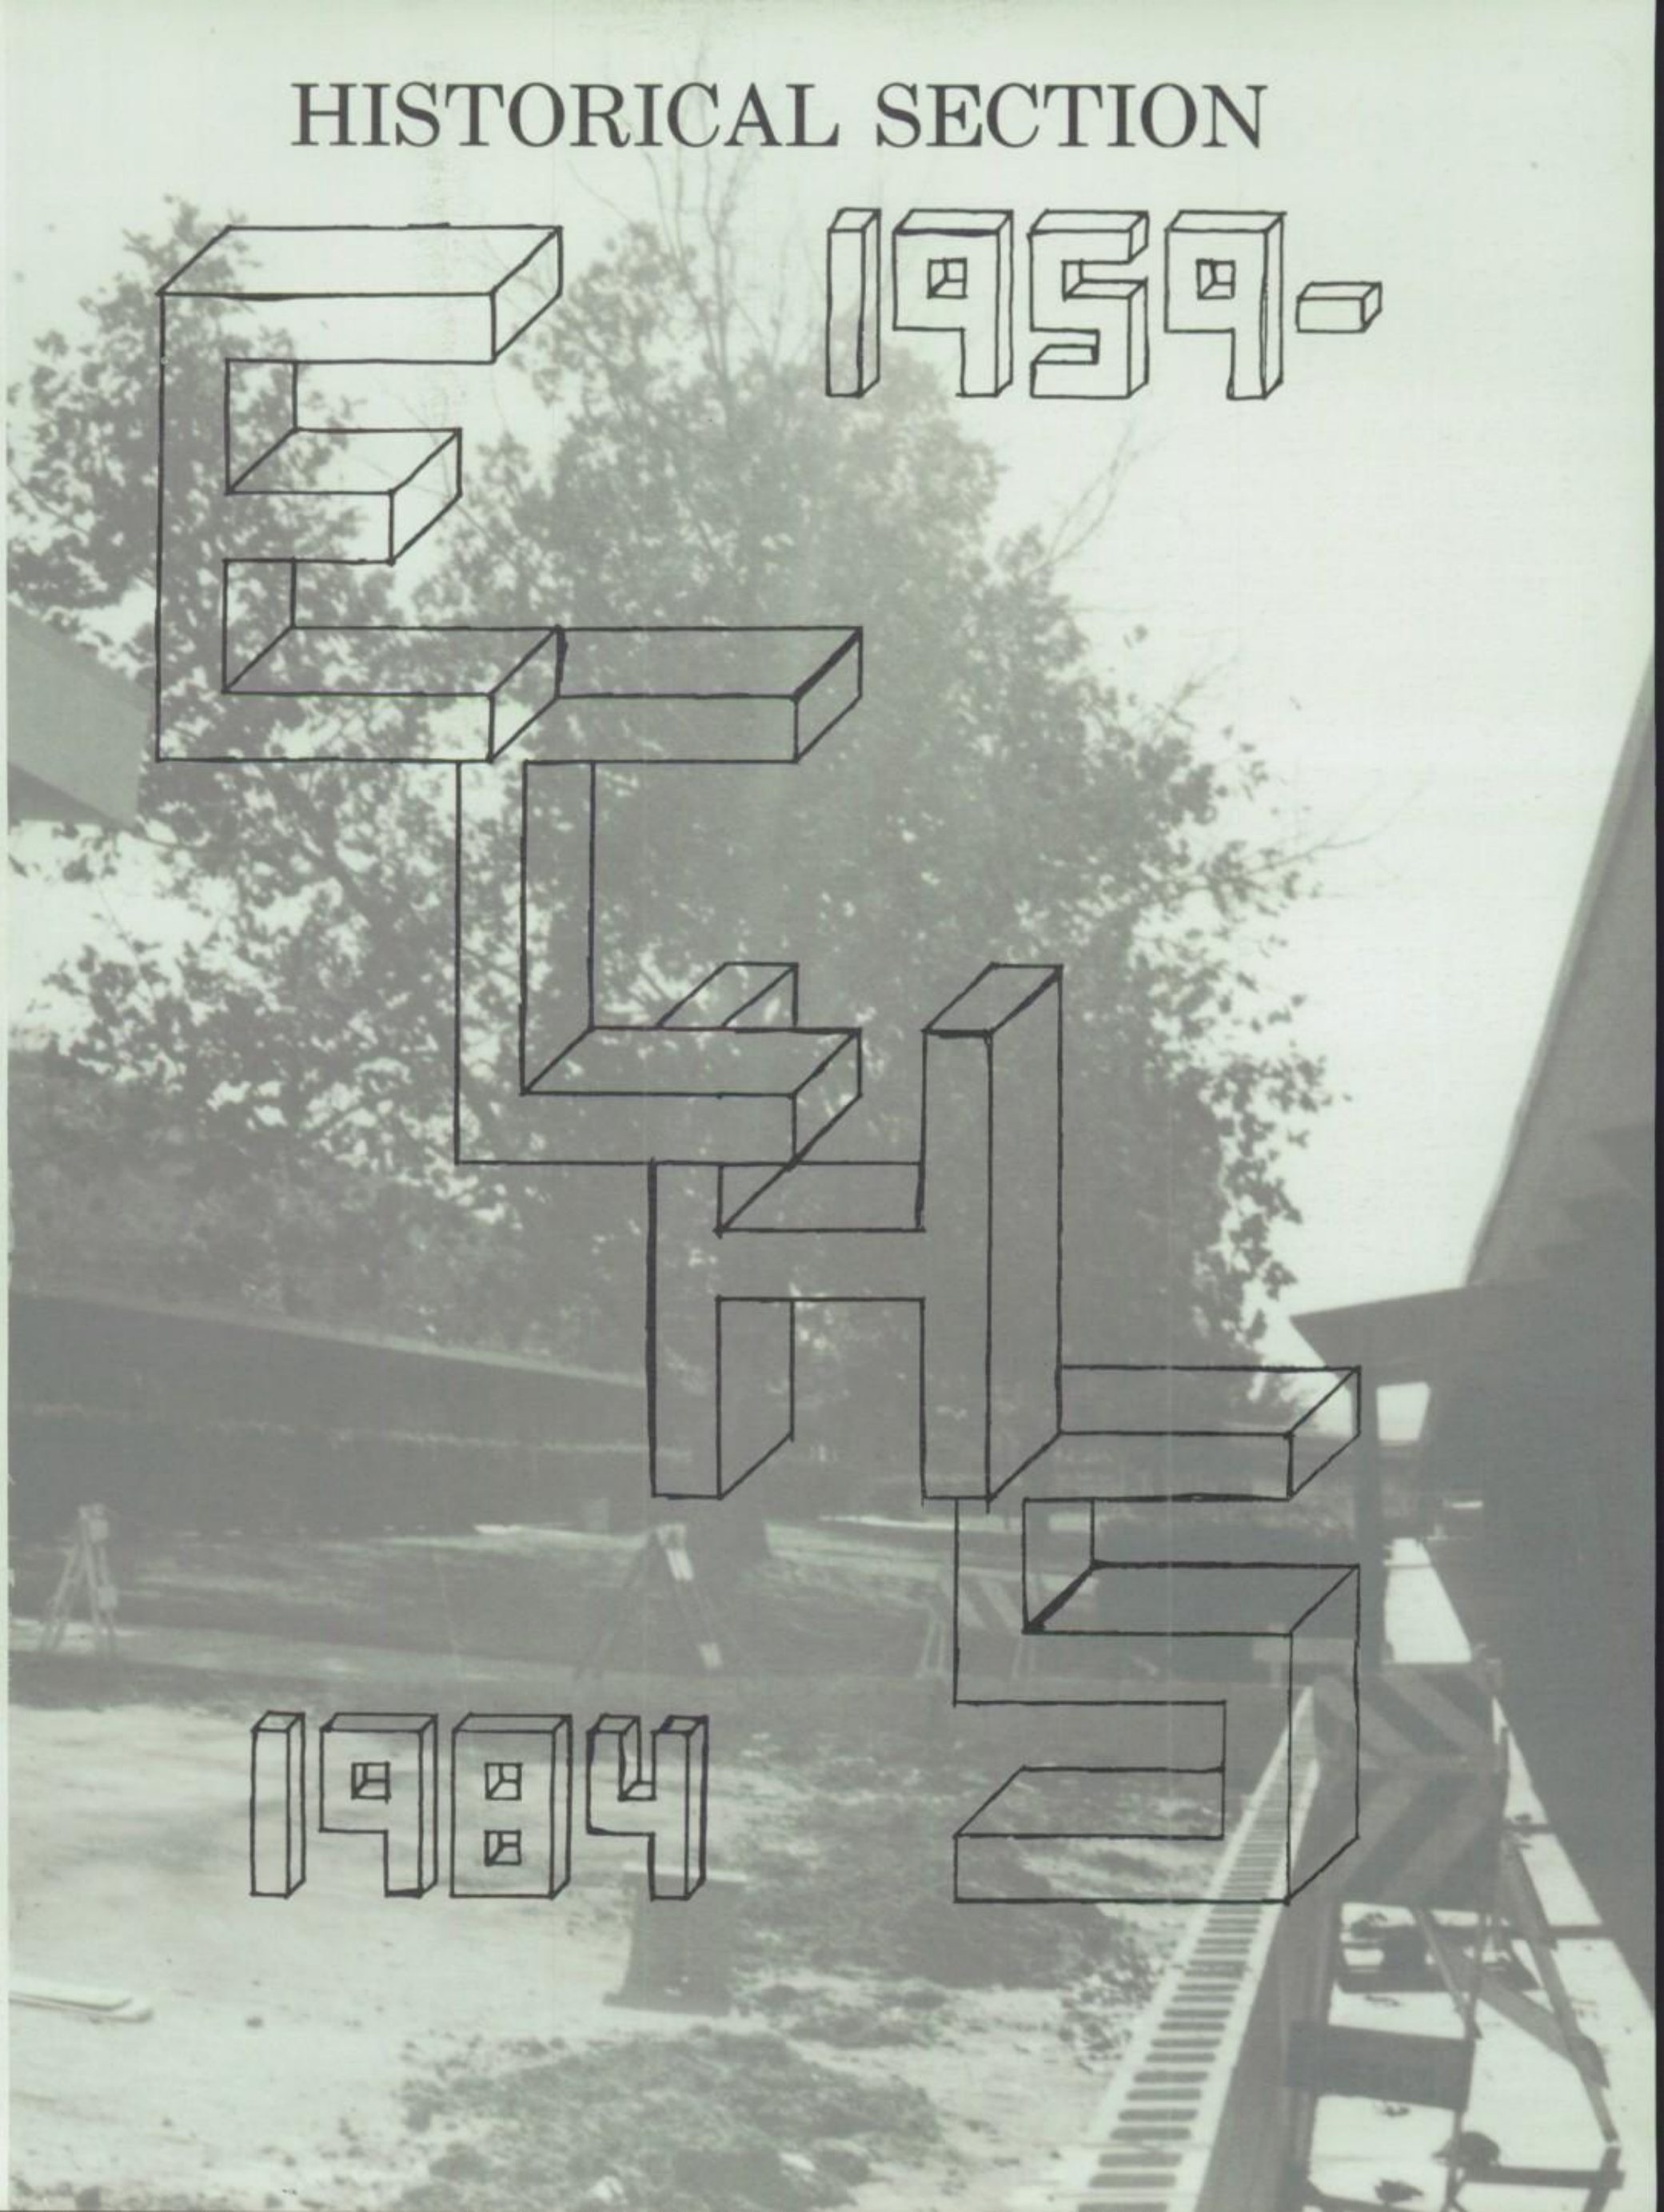
Alan and Rob share a laugh at the leg auction, each hoping to bring top dollar.

Gary Gottschall is preparing to go to political science class.

Don Milloy, Larry Potts, and Don Duffy gather in the early morning to chat before class.

Paul Schell waves farewell as he happily leaves campus for the day.

HISTORICAL SECTION



Historical Section

Since the opening of El Capitan in 1959 it has witnessed 25 years of history. Major conflicts in the world included the military action in Vietnam, the assassation of President Kennedy, our hostages being taken in Iran, and the recent uprising in the Middle East have colored the opinions of many El Capitan Students.

Less important issues but none-the-less memorable include various changes and variations in the fashion and tradition found on the school campus.

Some of the changes in fashion among the student include going from bobby sox to plastic shoes, poodle skirts to mini-skirts and the bee boppers to today's rockers.

Variations in today's traditions, in comparison with the past, are girls being able to ask boys out, sports programs designated for girls, co-ed sports programs and a less sterotyped society.

EL CAPITAN HIGH SCHOOL OPENS ITS ARMS TO STUDENTS FROM ALPINE, SANTEE AND LAKESIDE AREAS

Complete registration figures were not available at press time, but according to Russell Savage, Principal and Robert Burnham, it has exceeded the previous estimate of 1,400.

The registration of Freshmen for the Football team more than filled the need, according to Coach Eckenbeck. (Facts and figures next week).

"VAQUEROS" TO MAKE HEADQUARTERS AT EL CAPITAN

The nickname "Vaqueros", chosen by El Capitan students at a recent meeting, will provide colorful identification for all school activities in the opinion of an overwheming majority. Choosing from a slate which also contained the names "Hawks", "Rangers", and "Wildcats", the newly organized student group gave more votes to "Vaqueros" than to all the others on the list. The election became necessary after a first name chosen by the group was found to be a duplication of that of another school in the San Diego area.

Specialty corps have taken the new name to heart quickly, says Russell Savage, principal of El Capitan High School, and have already made plans for unique adaptations of the Western theme. School colors, black and gold with white accent, lend themselves well to uniforms, athletic equipment, etc., Mr. Savage says, and this opinion is shared by Mrs. Olga Ritter, director of the Specialty Corps, and elected leaders Karen Malzer and her lieutenant, Joann Helmer. Carolyn Betscher will head the pom-pom corps which has made plans for an unusual presentation of their specialty.

The temporary student body government will take over the duties of the steering committee now that school is over, and they will make decisions soon regarding such matters as letterman sweaters, rings, orientation of freshmen, and other student business. Kathy Metty is chairman, Billie Forthman is chairman of the student council, and Shiela Rogers is secretary.

El Capitan Students choose new nickname for High School.

"Build And Then Divide" Hits Grossmont Football

Grossmont football team is going back to the old tradition of "build and then divide" for the fourth time in the history of the school.

Last season's team, which had quite a number of juniors, ended the year in a tie for second place. After a fairly good year, the team was expected to have better year next season because they would have a big number of returning varsity letter men.

Then the news came for the fourth time the school was to be split. The new school will be El Capitan. Out of 13 returning varsity letter men, Grossmont will keep 10.

The main loss to the team is not in the fact that several of the good prospects on the varsity squad will leave for the new school, it is in the fact that their coaches for the past three seasons are going.

To a football player this is not so good. After several seasons under one coach, a player becomes acquainted with the coaches way of doing things. Also the coach knows just who he can depend on. This is important.

When a new coach steps in it takes time for him to get to know the players and for the players to know him. During this period a lot of time is wasted.

The opening of next season will tell the tale. Grossmont is expecting a great deal out of their new coaches and team. The 10 returning varsity letter men are: Don Hamlin, Wes Mier, Dennis Eidson, Danny Reed, Bryan Mac Clellan, Charles Ferguson, Jim Robison, Bob Devine, Steve Welch, and Dan Conoway.

Of A High School Campus

The time occurs in the daily life of a student when he or she needs to get away from the elements in their routine life. This all-so important event is planned, replanned, and reviewed during the course of the week and when Friday rolls around the plan is put to the test.

The summer months mean beach bound students headed for La Jolla or Del Mar or any one of the San Diego beaches to bask in the sun or to watch the surfers attack the waves. When orange and brown leaves adorn the lawns, and there is a chill in the air it means desert season! Campers and trucks are loaded with dune buggies, ATC's, motorcycles, and plenty of refreshments for a hot time on the dunes, or to cool off waterskiing at the river.

When the snow starts falling, or in San Diego when you need to put a sweatshirt on, skiiers head for the mountains, bota bags in hand for a day on the slopes.

When all else fails just spending time partying with friends can help you cure the "mental health" blues.

Christmas Assembly

The choroegraphy group anxiously waits for the show to begin.

The gym was fully packed and the performers were nervous. The music started and the dancers dressed in bright red and green began their jazzy Christmas routine with loud approval from the crowd. The Drill Team then moved onto the floor dressed in their night clothes and holding their teddy bears. The dance was to a children's song and appealed to the crowd. To end the assembly, the dancers reappeared in flowing white dresses and danced to the seasonal favorite "Hallelujh".

El Cap Silver Anniversary

The 1983-84 Homecoming was a spectacular event. The day was filled to the brim with excitement and anticipation. The band, drill team, and cheerleaders performed and the football players received their special care packages in the late morning assembly. The day faded into night and the excitement and suspense mounted.

A shot sounded and the half-time festivities began. Class and organizational floats drifted by. Following close behind were the candidates for the King and Queen with their escorts. Dave Adamson, the returning King, and escort Robin Stroman waited anxiously on the field. The returning Queen, Shelly Allen, and escort Billy Eisenbarth joined them.

The moment had arrived. Each candidate received a box with either a yellow or white carnation. The magic box containing the yellow carnation would signal the 1983-84 King and Queen. Kari Henzle's delighted screams and Joe Schrams wide smile announced the winners.

The new King and Queen were crowned in the midst of an aray of fireworks and the half-time events of Homecoming 1983-84 on October 28 came to an end.

Homecoming Night

The 1983 El Capitan Homecoming was one that students and members of the Lakeside Community will long remember.

At the halftime with a still scoreless game, the Homecoming activities began. The floats arrived first, one by one starting with the freshman and ending with the first prize winning seniors. Each float received enormous cheers from the crowd. Behind the floats were the candidates for King and Queen. After long weeks of anticipation the announcements were made. The special honor of Homecoming King went to Joe Schramm and the Queen to Kari Henzie.

As the game began again after the half was over the level of excitement and pride were at a high. Our team came back once again and showed exactly what they were made of. The team shut out the Monta Vista Monarchs 28-0. The Vaqueros now 7-0 with this game clinched a tie for the league title which eventually they won.

El Capitan's 25th Anniversary Homecoming was indeed a special one for all who attended.

Accompanied by close friends, past hearthrobs, destined partners, even loyal competitors; graduation is a time for reflection. Things we have forgotten may touch us at this moment, as our eyes fall upon those we once knew. Our stomachs become queasy, as we think about departing from this comfortable life, and traveling the road ahead.

The class of '84 had many aspirations and dreams, as any group of seniors would, who are about to embark on their separate voyages. The seniors have set out to accomplish necessities, like the Homecoming float, car wash, and hot dog booths. Not only did we fulfill our duties, but have excelled, as our senior float, first place winner, exemplified. Our colleagues are dedicated. Determined to reach their most outstanding goals, many of which have stemmed from the halls and classrooms of El Capitan.

Our diploma represents both an end and a beginning. High school, being a period of dependence, and graduation catapulting us toward independent lives. The class of '84 is ready for this beginning.

JUNIORS

Junior Class Officers

The Junior class officers are student leaders elected by their fellow classmates to run the student affairs. The class officers' main goal is to raise money for their Senior prom. This year's officers strived hard to obtain the goals set by themselves and their advisor. The 1983-84 officers were Carl Cato — President, Michelle Saunders — Vice President, Liann Bryan — Secretary, Kathy Weber — Treasurer, Jaime Birkel and Michelle Buerkle — Publicity. The Junior class advisor was Ed Legace.

The class of 85' officers had numerous fundraisers ranging from car washes to selling sun-catchers which guaranteed a free prom. These money makerswere successful and brought extra funds to the Junior class. The Junior class also built a float to participate in the Homecoming festivities. This year's theme for the float was Rock-a-Billy.

Freshmen Class Officers

The Freshmen Class Officers were active for weeks making the Freshmen float, "El Caps Variety", for the Homecoming parade. It included the different types of music El Cap students listen to; Heavy Metal, New Wave, Mod, Country, and Surfer Rock.

The officers planned a fund raising event for their senior class prom and other activities. Mr. Felice feels this can be the best graduating class at El Capitan High School.

The 1983-84 Freshmen Class Officers are:

Top Row: Kim Pauley, Secretary; Cathy Singer, Vice President; Lea Yates, Publicity. Bottom Row: Jennifer Bonnett, Treasurer; Chris Blanco, President; Lori Yates, Publicity. Advisor: Mr. Lee Felice.

FACULTY

Administration

The Administration has been an important element in learning and discipline at El Capitan for the last 25 years, and 1983-84 was no exception. By following the standard of pride and discipline set by El Capitan's first Administration, this year's staff succeeded in creating not only an enjoyable atmosphere but one built on academic endeavor and achievement.

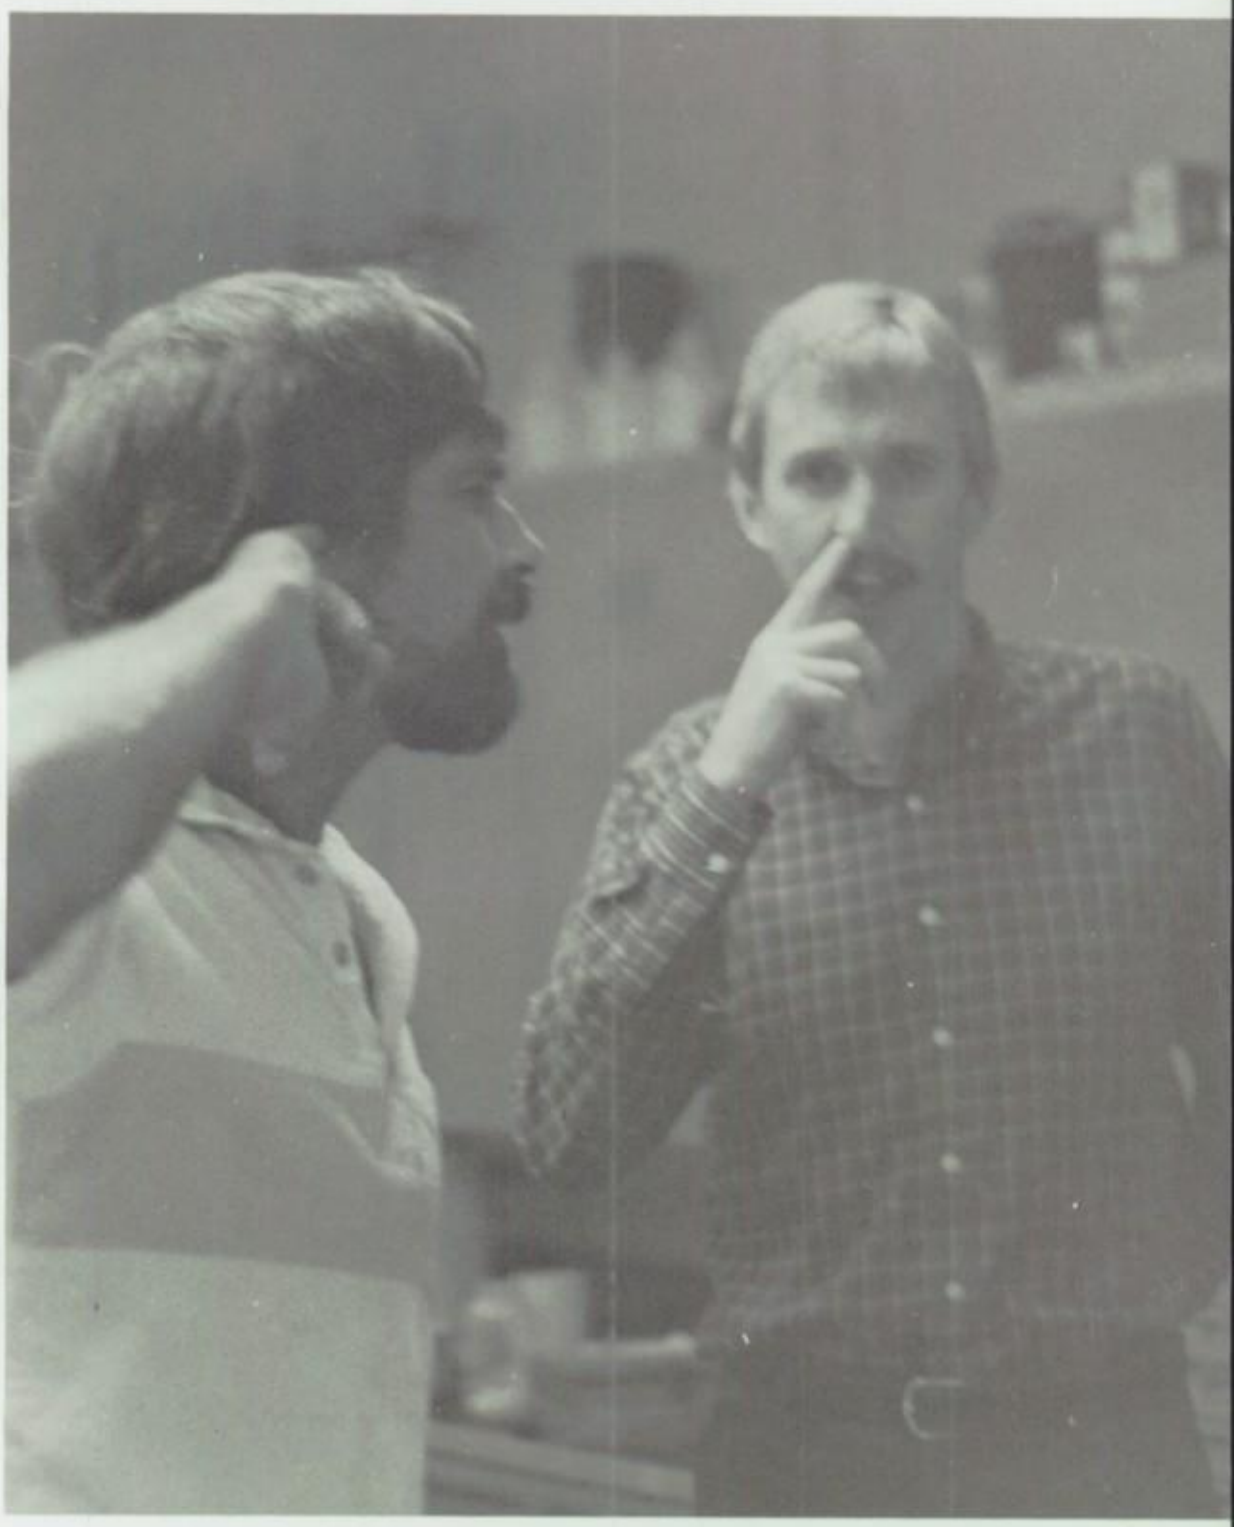
Faculty At Their Best

BEHIND THE SCENES — Often it is not realized how much the faculty and staff contribute to El Cap. The students have always been able to count on the faculty for an educational atmosphere, as well as an abundance of school spirit. These two pages are filled with action shots of the hard working El Capitan staff.



Mr. Villani and Mr. Peabody show us some of the newest biological experiments. Tricky huh?

CLASSES

Geography

Geography, taught by Mr. Lipetzky, Mr. Benfonte, Mr. Nelson, Coach Duke, Mr. Graham, Coach Storm, and Mr. Furrow is a required freshmen course. Throughout the year, students learned about physical as well as cultural geography of many countries. The students also learned how to express their opinions and use their research through debating. In one class, the students did a report on Europe in which they were to pretend they were actually going there. They included where they were staying, the sights they were going to see, their expenses, and also a daily journal of their experiences while visiting Europe.

Science

The science department offers a strong lab science curriculum. New science students find themselves instantly surrounded by the interesting lab atmosphere that is similar throughout the three courses: biology, physics, and chemistry. But, is kinetic energy conserved throughout these three years? Without question! The student is carried from the fascinating world of fetal pigs, octopi, and animal classification, to the thought provoking experience of acceleration due to gravity, Newtonian Synthesis, and the building of a bridge, ending in the madcap adventure with chemical reactions, atomic tables, and molecular structure!

During these years, conservation of momemtum would be hard to obtain it were not for the excellence of Mr. Villani and Mr. Peabody, biology; Mr. Pendleton, physics; and Mr. Murillas, chemistry.

American Studies

American Studies, taught by Paul DeKock and Dave Yount, relates life experiences to literature and focuses on moments in time and historical concepts.

The class is aimed mainly at college bound students, teaching them how to take notes, use initial and reflective responses, deliver organized speeches, and write college level essays.

This unique two-hour class combines both U.S. history and American literature. The students thrughout the year write a constitution, live in a twenty-first century society, own slaves, work in simulated coal mines and steel mines, and create a small town indentity that recites a poem from the grave.

Both Mr. DeKock and Mr. Yount take a subject, which usually doesn't interest students, and make it a unique and interesting learning experience.

Foreign Language

The two foreign languages taught at El Capitan this year were Spanish and French. Mrs. Romaine, Mrs. McClain, and Mr. Muniozguren were the three teachers who not only taught students the languages, but helped them to better understand the cultures, regions, and people of the country they were studying. For students in the beginning classes, dialogues and worksheets concerning vocabulary and basic phrases were given to the students. They also listened to tape recordings and watched films concerning either the French or Spanish speaking countries. For the advanced students more study in grammar and literature is emphasized. As another way of learning, the students also had the opportunity to taste various foods from the region they were studying.

A C-average grade must be obtained in the last semester for the student to continue on in his study of foreign language.

Tracy Althof responds to a command given to her in French.

Ted Cuevas answers a question given by Mrs. McClain.

Mr. Muniozguren gets a variety of responses.

English

During the 1983-84 school year, the El Capitan English Department had emphasized cross-disciplinary writing which focused on the idea that writing is a way of learning as well as a way of communicating. This practice also recognizes that each subject area has its own process and through writing students can internalize and understand this process. In January, members of the department participated in a series of after-school workshops. Students familiar with writing assignments such as learning logs and reflective responses can safely assume their teachers attended the cross-disciplinary writing workshop.

The department welcomed two new members, Kathleen Balgley and Karen Harrison, in September. Ms. Balgley taught seniors and sophomores and worked on her dissertation at UCSD. Ms. Harrison taught freshmen, coordinated the writing lab, and coached the drill and flag corps.

Civics

Psychology·Political Science

Civics is the social science course for seniors, and focuses on Political Science, Psychology and Economics. The course provides a bridge between the more activity oriented courses in younger years, and the more structured approach the student will experience in college. Activities such as a mock trial, mock congress, decision making on political issues, budget making and observing lab rats; are blended with class lecture, class discussion, and development of skills in notetaking and textbook study. The course deals with real issues that effect the student as a young adult, and is designed to give an understanding of self in relation to political issues, the economy, and the many varied views on human behavior.

Math Department

Under the leadership of Mrs. Cathy Peairs, the math department has established a sound and strong math curriculum. The choice of math courses ranged from arithmatic review through algebra and geometry and continuing on to calculus. The credibility and strength of the math department has been enchaced by the addition of three new staff members, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Murillas and Mr. Plough, to the already outstanding department consisting of Ms. Bradley, Mr. Fellman, Mr. Hoss, Mr. LaBlond, Mr. Liberknecht, Mrs. Peairs, Mr. Pendleton, Mr. Till, Mr. Varbel, and Mr. Wilkins.

Mr. Hoss enjoys giving his students a thought for the day.

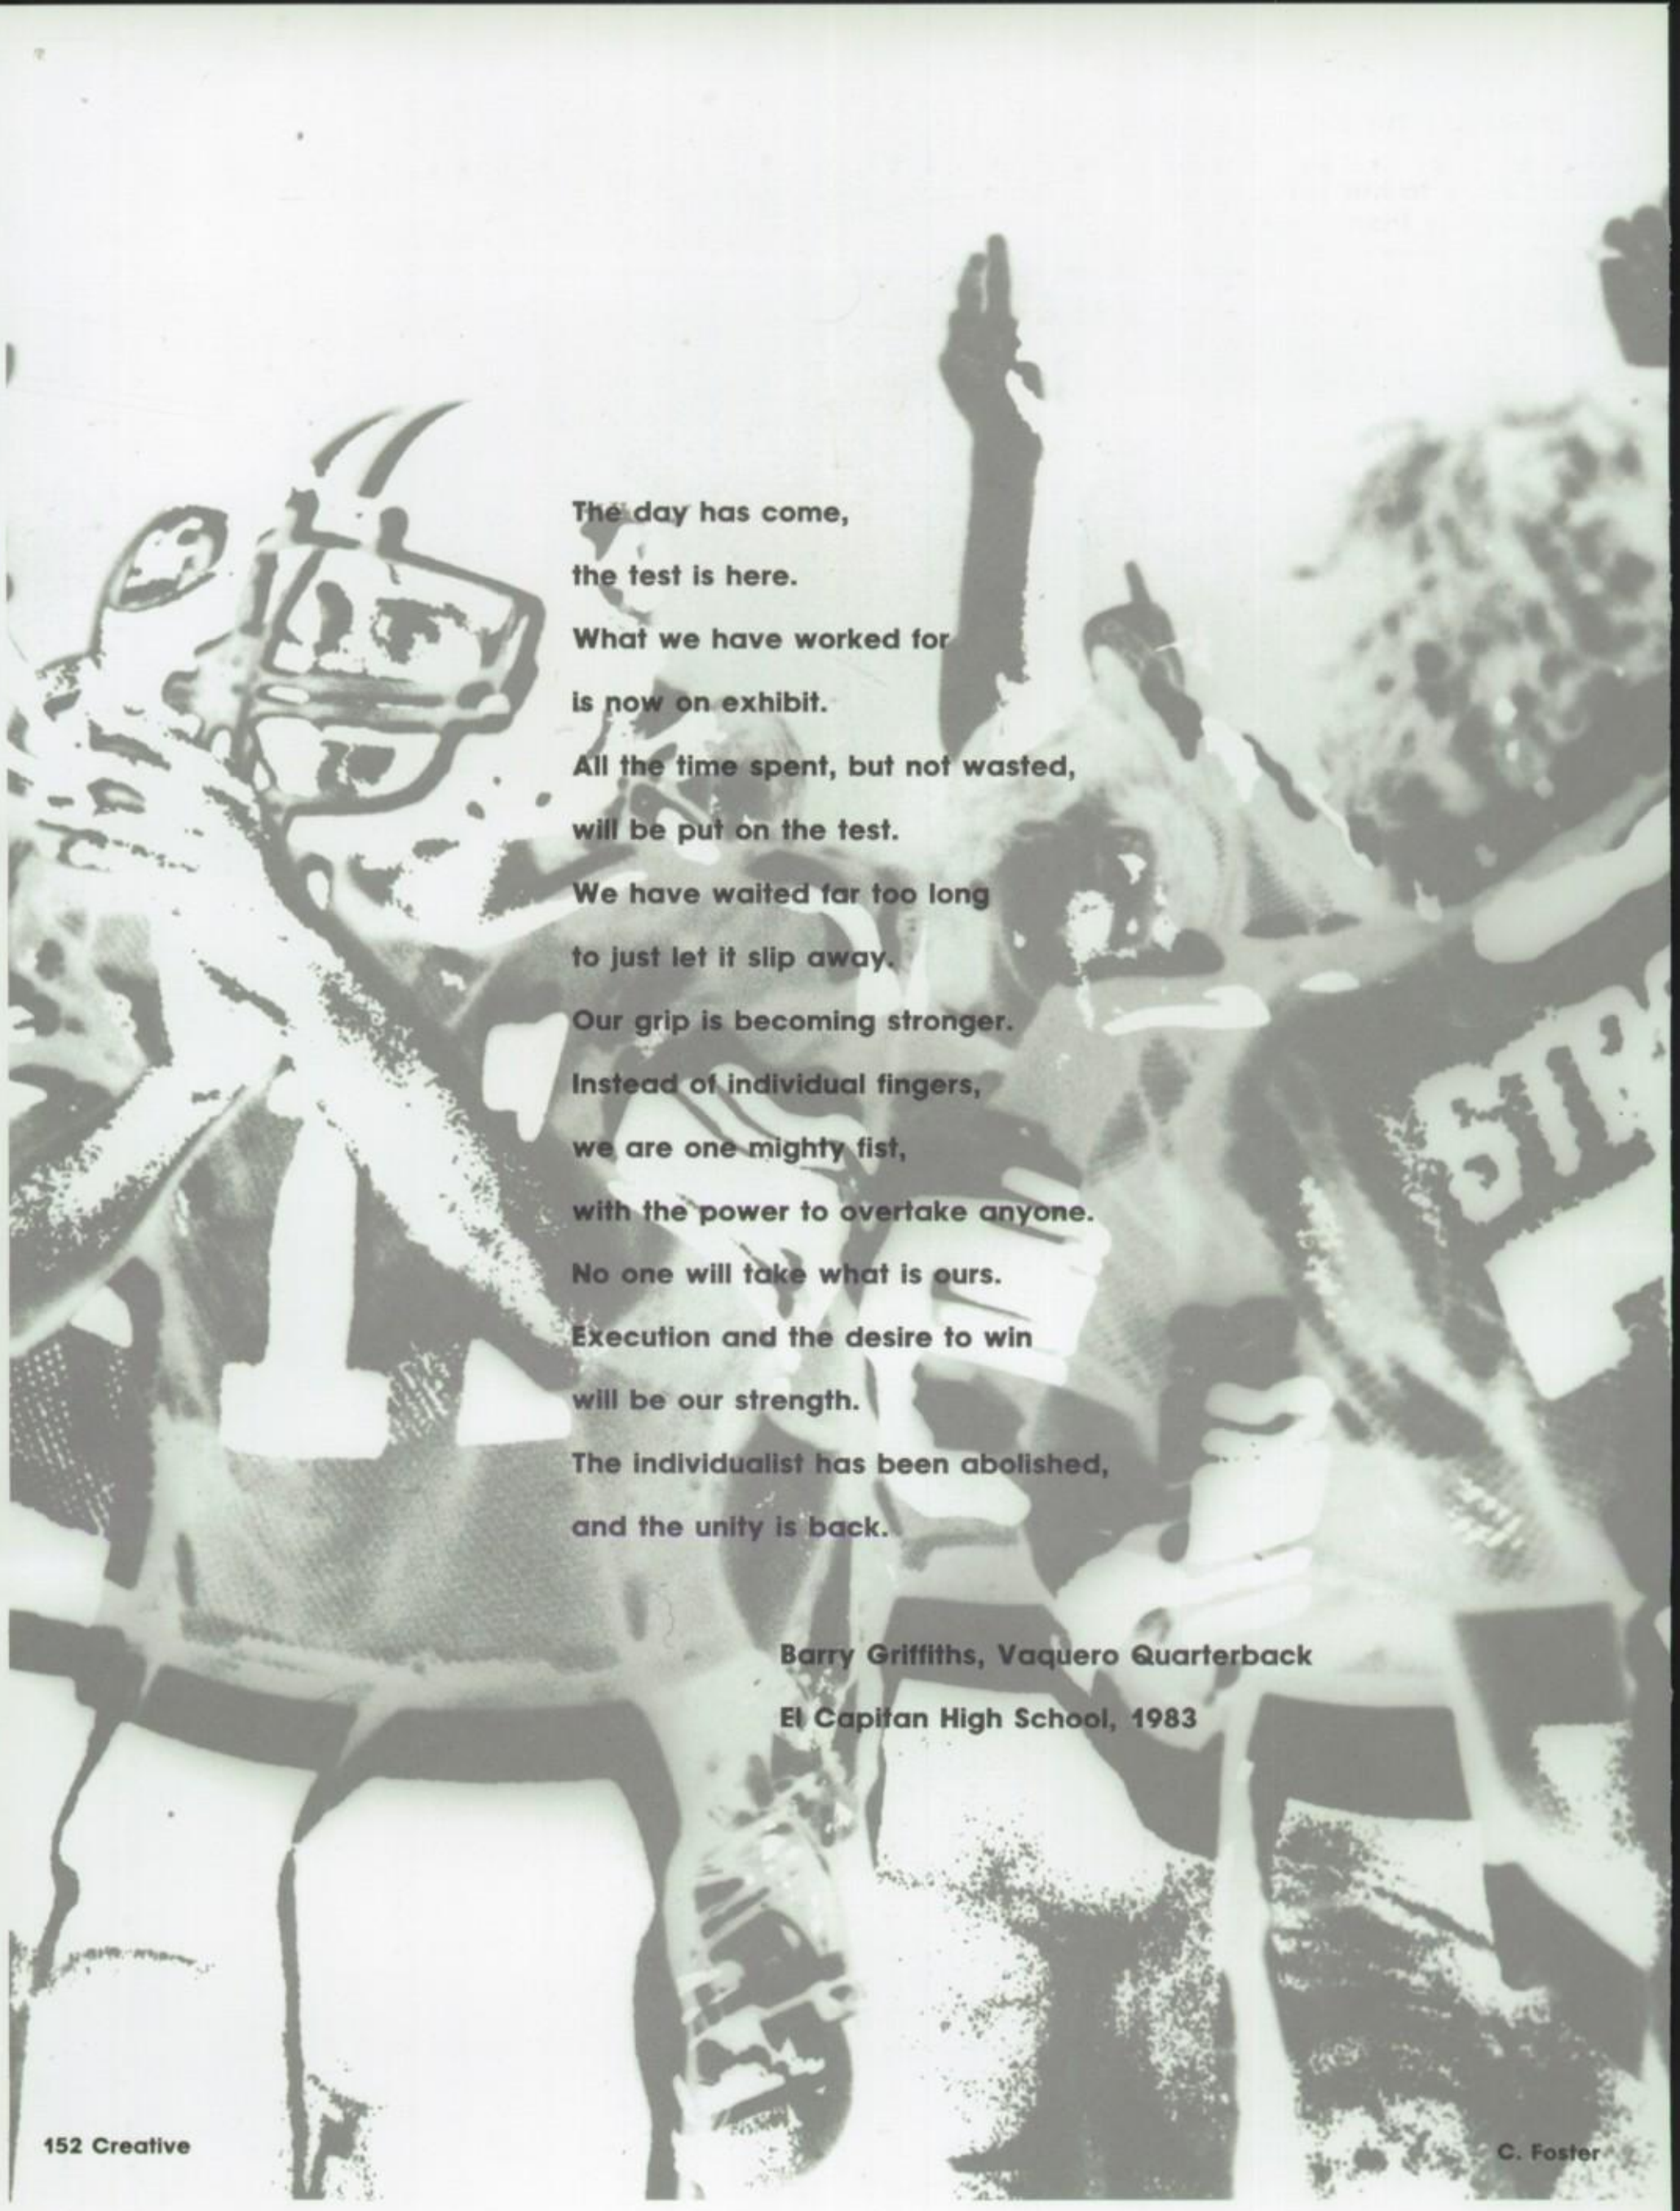
CREATIVE



The day has come,
the test is here.
What we have worked for
is now on exhibit.
All the time spent, but not wasted,
will be put on the test.
We have waited far too long to just let it slip away.
Our grip is becoming stronger.
Instead of individual fingers,
we are one mighty fist,
with the power to overtake anyone.
No one will take what is ours.
Execution and the desire to win
will be our strength.
The individualist has been abolished,
and the unity is back.

WHEN ALL THE LUXURY ENDS

Looking back to the years when so many friends were so near
And parting seemed so hard to do.
Tears streamed from our eyes
like rain from the skies
Ending relationships and an era of fun and luxury.

Looking forward to years of new opportunities and a chance to restart
Many things in our lives
will have to be rearranged.
Our lives will change like leaves on trees in autumn Fears of the world from which we were sheltered will become known.
We will grow and learn to do and exist on our own.

We know that the luxury
could not last forever
and now the work
becomes the hardest.
But, whatever the past held
or the future holds,
we must live our lives
to the fullest.

OUR FAVORITE SONG

Of time long passed,
I remember the sun,
Along the shore I played,
I ran with friends,
we sang the songs
of the season.

No more time to laugh.
The years passed, now gone.
We shared so much,
you and I,
No longer do we see the sun,
as it was.

Freckled toads,
Wrinkled noses,
Those were just some of the jokes.

Together we had
childhood dreams.
It was like
seasons in the sun.

We don't talk anymore.
We're not even friends.
Childhoods have been forgotten.
A friendship
we thought would never end.

Leila May 12th

You're quick to smile,
quick to giggle,
Deadly in a pillow fight.
You speak in constant rhyme and riddle,
That always seem to turn out right.
You're the rainbow that brightens
Each cloudy dawn of grey.
The grins upon the faces
Of little children at play;
The part of my puzzle
That always seems to fit.
The candle on my cake
That stays forever lit.
You're always there to pick me up
When Humpty Dumpty falls,
Willing to put my pieces together
So I can climb back on the wall.
Always there to listen,
To what I cannot say.
You're the frown that's always upside down,
The needle in the hay.
Some will say you are,
The only three cornered square.
Others say you'll always be,
The blink within the stare.
All I know is what I see,
A very special friend.
Someone I will always love,
Forever, 'til the end.

DESERT BOUND

The talk was up
it was all around
everyone is excited
'cause we are desert bound.

We loaded the truck
and packed our gear
the dunes were ready
and the time was near.

We headed on out
in the heat of the night
the traffic on the highway was a stream of lights.

As we came up
then dropped into the valley we could see there was a three-wheeler rally.

Everyone was anxious as we reached the place
they ran for their wheelers with grins on their faces.

We rode and rode all night long
the sound of engines
was like a song.

Thanksgiving time
is so much fun
after eating turkey
we ride in the sun.

There are competitions
and races too
maybe next year
you'll join us too.

So don't make any plans
a year from now
come on out
and we'll show you how.

Remember this tale
it's true alright
the dunes are there for the riders' delight.

It is so fun,
when everyone's around
we are the ones, who are
desert bound.

Learning and living
through big brown eyes,
Seeing life's wonders
and its surprise.
Taking that step
that starts your way,
To make the hope
of an exciting day.
When dreams come true
and life begins,
Childhood starts,
being a baby ends.
A new ATC!
A pink one too!
No more worries
of what to do.
Taking each day

Laughing,
Dreaming,
Having fun.

ACROSS THE MILES

We have never been so close as we are today
I ignored your remarks and saw through your comments
I knew you never really meant what you'd say
I always agreed so as to avoid arguments

We have never been so close as we are today
The distance is far, but brings us together
When we were near we never had much to say
But now that we aren't we talk more than ever

We have never been so close as we are today
We seemed so different in our childhood
I chose cars and you chose dolls when we'd play
I admired you so much, everything you did was good

We have never been so close as we are today
Across the miles, so far away

A DREAMER'S REALITY

My dreams of flying horses, their wings so strong and huge. Of rainbow colored manes and tails and horns of golden hue.

A wisp of cool air flutters my hair. A snort and a thump on the floor. I open my eyes and your standing there, waiting for me by the door.

I walk toward you thinking, "This must be another dream", then I look in your eyes and I am hypnotized as I realize that you are real.

I mount upon your velvet back and hold your silky mane. Your muscles tremble beneath my legs. Your strength will never wane.

We break free out my window, are blasted by night air. I snuggle close and hear you nicker, we make a perfect pair.

The wind tugs at our bodies and the clouds wet us with dew, and I know time is standing still, just for Me and You!

Best Friend

A friend is like a nurse
Always there when you need,
A friend is like an ear
Always there to hear,
A friend is like a pom-pom
Always there to cheer,
A friend is like a genius
sitting under the sky,
She always know the answers
but never knows why.
A friend can be lots of things
to help you grow,
But when you find your best friend,
you should never let her go.

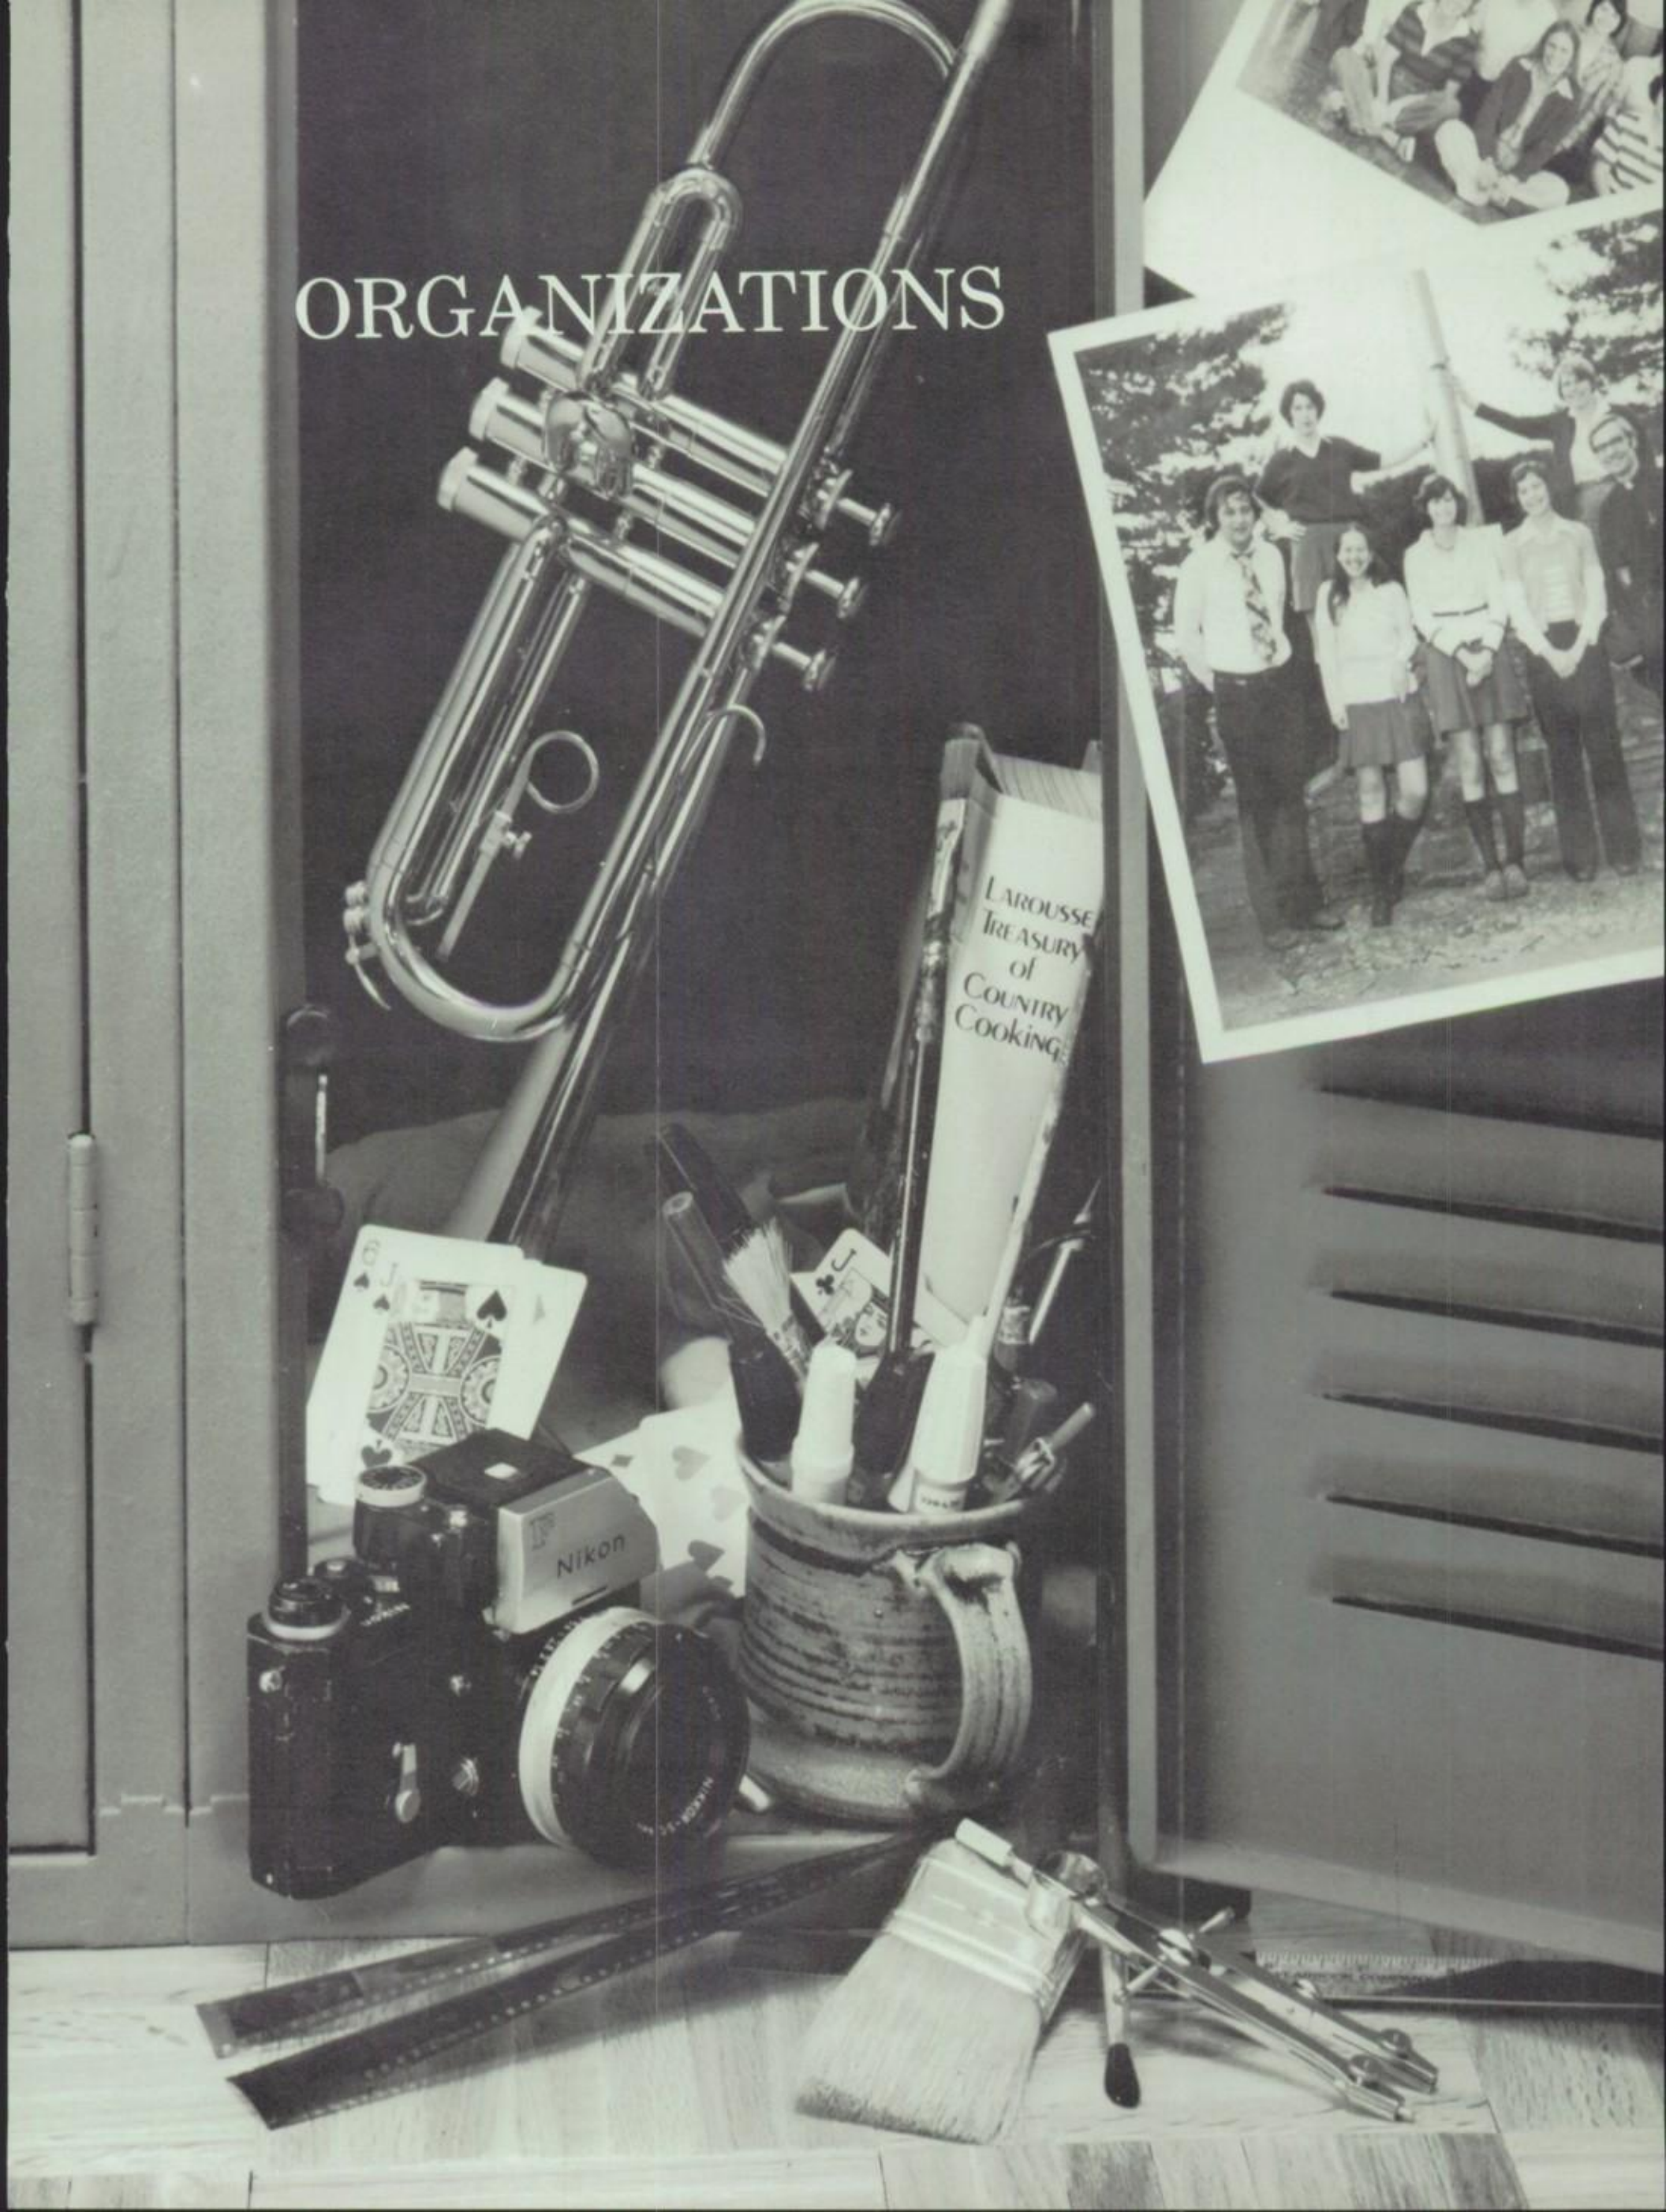
ORGANIZATIONS



Associated Student Body is a student government organization, which consisted of both elected officers and class representatives. Each officer was assigned specific jobs and the representatives helped them get it done.

The ASB was there to help students, faculty and the community understand what was happening at El Cap. Their most important job was to help the school be a better place and run smoothly.

ASB organized many fund raisers throughout the year. This included concession stands, candy sales, car washes and many other projects.

One of their most important jobs of the year was Homecoming. They were in charge of the King and Queen voting, fireworks and advertising.

This year, El Capitans Varsity Cheer produced more spirit than any previous year. Maybe it was because our teams did well, or that the Varsity cheerleaders spent most of their summer vacation at long hard practices. In late April, one week after the twelve new cheerleaders were chosen, they began learning the cheers and chants which would be used in the upcoming year.

After the Fall season, the girls also had to learn new cheers for the winter and spring sports. Anyone present at a sports event could always be assured of seeing the cheerleaders there to lead the crowds in spirit.

The squad cheered at all athletic games and matches, promoting spirit, supporting the Vaqueros teams, performing routines and pyramids. Each game and event was an opportunity for the J.V. squad to show their pride and enthusiasm.

Annual Staff Goes First Class

Each morning, throughout the year, black and silver limosines dropped off editors, writers, photographers and all influential annual staff members to room 701. When the 7:00 bell rang, signifying the end of their champagne breakfast, the publication Waltz began. Those young ladies and gentlemen with their flowing layout sheets and their collection of photographs would go from partner to partner, in hopes of completing their contribution to the annual by the deadline. The belle of this ball Ms. Schuster, could always be found in the center of her vast number of followers, all a bit confused and full of questions. If by some miscalculation, a staff member failed to meet a deadline, by the twelfth stroke of midnight, he/she found that Ms. Schuster turned into a lemon. Not a very appealing prospect. But this was infrequent and the Prince Charming attitude of the whole staff buoyed it through the year.

Marching Band

The El Capitan Marching Band participated in nine major events throughout the year. Their first competition was hosted by Artesia High School in Los Angeles and the second at Rowland high school. They placed second and first respectively. The bands first non-competitive event was held at Disneyland. They also competed in competitions at the La Harbra and San Diegeto High School Field Shows. In field show competitions the bands are judged on their marching and maneuvering, general effects, and the music. The bands last field competition was held at Long Beach High School. Only the best bands from the southwest were invited to compete in the all western band review, an event El Cap has participated in for twenty-five years. The bands only parade competition was the City of Oceanside Christmas parade where the band was hosted by Oceanside High School. The band placed first and won the highest music award out of twenty bands with a score of 94.9 out of 100. El Cap's band, which had grown from thirty-five members to over sixty-seven, competes in the class A division which is determined by the school size. Parades are generally judged on marching and maneuvering, showmanship, and music. In spring the band performed in the annual, non-competitive Lakeside Parade. On December 12, the band performed in their annual Christmas concert at the El Cajon Performing Arts Center.

When not on the road the band kept in tune playing at football games during halftime and at pep assemblies, a twenty-five year old tradition.

The International Club is an organization that allows students from all over the world to experience new facets of life in different countries. We have seven foreign exchange students attending El Capitan this year. They are Shaden Al-Said, Jordon; Julio Gavazza, Brazil; Marichel De Garcia, Panama; Ake Hallgren, Sweden; Chiho Matsushita, Japan; Mireille Serres, France; Suraphan Phutayanon, Thailand. Having to adjust to new surroundings and making new friends has been a common experience with all of them. Sharing this, they became close friends. The members of the I-Club met every Monday and one exchange student shared a part of their country's culture with the other students. Mr. Murillas, a chemistry teacher, contributed some musical selections from his native country, South America. The I-Club is advised by Mrs. Romaine.

Chiho Matsushita is from Japan and enjoys her new friends and likes her teachers. She also likes school here in America because the school year finishes earlier than the schools in Japan. She chose to come to America because she knows little about our culture, and wanted to learn more about it. She has made many new friends and have been helpful to her here at El Capitan.

Shaden Al-Said is from Jordon, Africa. The things she liked best about America were Sea World, Disneyland and Knotts Berry Farm.

Suraphan Phutayanon is from Bangkok, Thailand. He liked the school, the I-Club and the students at El Cap. He chose to come to America because he wanted to learn more about the culture and said that the new friends that he had made were friendly and helpful. They helped him with his school work and they were fun to be with.

Julio Cesar Gavazza, from Brazil, liked America because to the opportunity for people to improve themselves in employment and society. He also liked the quiet atmosphere and hospitality of Lakeside. He found El Capitan appealing because of the girls, teachers and the friendly students.

Mireille Serres is from France and she said she really liked Lakeside. She also liked the way the students were involved with their school here and she appreciated the spirit of El Cap students. She discovered Mexican food and also liked typical American food like Hamburgers and hotdogs.

Ake Hallgren is from Sweden and he enjoyed being in Lakeside and going to El Capitan. He also liked the girls, the people, and the food. The reason he chose to come to America is because he, like all the the other foreign exchange students, wanted to learn more about our culture since it was very much different than his own.

On The Horizon

To be an efficient newspaper staff, it must strive for excellence in several areas. Their product must be informative, interesting, helpful, and worth reading. This year's Horizon staff, advised by Ms. Schuster and lead by Erica Rubine, produced many near flawless issues. The class had many talented reporters who developed their journalistic potential to its fullest. The students knew they "wrote to be read" so they took their job seriously. The editors had the responsibility of getting the articles typed and ready for print before the deadlines. The dedication and hard work paid off with a successful series of newspapers.

The Year Of The Vaqueros!

"The year of the Vaqueros!" This was said around Lakeside and the Grossmont League. The 1983 edition of the El Capitan Vaquero football team surprised everyone by leading the Grossmont League with a 8-0 record and winning the league championship.

The offense nicknamed the "Whirlwind Express," always put points on the board. With a strong running game, led by backs A. Murray, M. Spencer and S. Palmer, the Vaqueros averaged over 300 yards per game. Behind the blocking of linemen R. Sims, D. McCormick, M. Stroman, M. Purcell and L. Duncan, the ball was methodically moved down the field. Although not known for it's passing game, the Vaqueros, led by quarterback B. Griffiths, could count of the big play when needed.

The "Gold Rush Defense," as it was called, recorded five defensive shut-outs. With a league high 32 sacks, the defensive line, led by M. Stroman, A. Vander Weil, M. Martinez and T. Pinkerton, were feared around the league. Linebackers, such as J. Sween, K. Brinegar, C. Fain and T. Martin, gave no ground. The defensive backfield, led by interception leader, A. Roberts, could be counted on for the big play.

This year's Vaqueros, instilled a new pride in the school and the community, and were proud to do so.

Stopping Santana cold!

El Capitan's J.V football team weathered a rebuilding year after last year's outstanding 7-1-1 season with a 5-3-1 record. All three losses came at the expense of fourth quarter turnovers resulting in defeats by a touchdown or less in each instance. Clearly, a "rebuilding" team was nearly an undefeated one. These facts as well as the following J.V football standouts show a promising group of future El Capitan varsity football players. Leading the team offensively were sophomores Steve Nowlan at quarterback, D.I. Coney at fullback, Greg Bluffin at wide receiver, and Chris Dickerson at center. The J.V defense was led by a swarm of young, sophomore linebacks: Zazu Pitts, Frog Donahou, Jeff Hoss and Tim Durst. The defensive forward well was led by sophomore Jeff Sumner and juniors Mike Cabell and Randy Saleswki. The defensive secondary was led by juniors Ron Rhoads and Clyde Fitzsimmons. All in all, the future of El Capitan's football program seems to be in great hands.

Water Polo

El Cap's Water Polo season for 1983 was the most successful in the school's history. It was highlighted by a sudden death victory over Mount Miguel. Led by seniors Brendan Surratt and Matt Lane, the team was victorious eight times. With outstanding palyers: M.V.P. Troy Sherrillo, Troy Suttat, Jeff Clark and freshman Robert Kruegar, this year's team set new school records for most goals scored in a season and most goals scored against in a season.

The 1983 boys' cross country team was composed of Dan Northcutt, David Schlomer, Phil Aguilar, Darrel Baum, Jared Brooks, Scott Gerdes, Jeff Blanco, Jeff Rice, Devin Dietzen, and Don Gabriella.

This year the team ran to a second place in the league standings and in the C.I.F. finals. El Capitan's top seven runners represented the school in both league and C.I.F. finals. Running were seniors Dan Northcutt and David Schlomer, juniors Jeff Rice, Devin Dietzen, Phil Aguilar, and Jared Brooks, and sophomore Darrel Baum. All were in the top 25 in both meets.

The forwards were Wendy Nash, Kim Weiser, Amy Fishburn, Obra Hague. The guards' job was to dribble the ball down court to pass to the wings.
